

DESIGN A BATHING SUIT FOR ME!

BY BETTY BROWN

Girls, I'm appealing to you for help. Young girls, old girls, fat and thin girls, blond and brunet girls, I'm in need of assistance from all of you.

For a long, long time I've been telling you about fashions, advising you what was the latest word. And I've liked it, for I believed you were following me.

Now you must help me.

I want a bathing suit. The water may be a bit cold these days, but I want my suit when summer comes. And preparedness is the order of the hour. When the first really warm day comes I want to be clad for a dash down to the beach.

Use your own judgment about the style of the suit.

If you think I am a beach basker, make it frilly and beribboned.

If you think I am a very water witch, make it useful and let the frills go.

But remember that the city fathers say the skirt on skirted suits must come to four inches above the knee at least. One-piece suits are different, but they mustn't be too low in the neck and armholes must fit snugly.

Those are my only suggestions and you don't have to follow them if you don't want to.

Monday The Day Book will print a diagram on which you can design the bathing suit. There will be four diagrams all together, and they will be in the paper every day for two weeks. Use any one of them or all of them.

And design as many suits as you like. There is no limit.
